Cleaning Services Recruitment Open Day at the RUH

The Royal United Hospital is inviting people looking for work, particularly those who prefer flexible part-time shifts, to its Cleaning Services Recruitment Open Day on Tuesday 11 October.

It will take place in the hospital's Atrium from 10am to 2pm and 5pm to 7pm.

Timm Schofield, Deputy Hotel Services Manager said:

“Our cleaning staff are invaluable members of our workforce and make an important contribution to the safe delivery of our services. They are the ‘frontline’ for hygiene and preventing spread of infection and are acknowledged for the contribution they make for our patients and staff.

“We are looking to recruit people who are enthusiastic, dynamic and want to make a difference. There’s a range of flexible shift patterns available, ideal for people looking to achieve a balance that suits their family life.”

At the recruitment event, people will be able to find out about the shifts that are available, what the role entails, as well as meet some members of Cleaning Services Team.

Timm says: "The RUH is a truly great place to work. Our cleaners are proud of the work they do here and there are opportunities for individuals to grow, as we’ve seen some of our colleagues work their way up to supervisor and team leader positions. Anyone interested should come along to find out more.”
